Grab your cowboy hats, don those boots and saddle up, the 21st Annual Bill Pickett Invitation Rodeo (the nations only touring Black Rodeo) is back at the Georgia International Horse Park, Atlanta, GA on Saturday, May 14th at 7:30 p.m., and Sunday, May 15th at 3:30 p.m. for the rodeo.

For an in depth overview of the drama and the excitement, visit the web site at www.billpickettrodeo.com.

Heralding the legacy of the Black Cowboy and Cowgirl, president and event producer, Lu Vason has been unrelenting with his vision to keep the history alive. Armed with the knowledge that one out of every six cowboys was African American, Vason is a true champion of the cause. “The rodeo was named after the legendary creator of Bull Doggin, William “Bill “ Pickett. This rodeo serves as a tribute to the original ‘Bull Dogger’ and is dedicated to all the Black cowboys and cowgirls of the past who helped shape the West, and those today who help to keep the spirit of the West alive, ‘cites Vason.

Motivated by his experience after attending the Cheyenne Frontier Days (the grand daddy of rodeos in Wyoming), Lu Vason, producer of the Bill Pickett Invitational Rodeo states, “My experience was exciting, but lacked one thing, Black Cowboys”.

Celebrating our 21st season and hundreds of performances later, Lu Vason, President and Producer of the Rodeo continues to challenge the false perception of an absentee presence of Black in the development of the West.

The Black Rodeo has been a powerful tool in his goals of educating people on the Black west experiences and the cultural pride associated with all the contributions made by African Americans.

“People know the name Will Rogers,” said Vason, “but who they hadn’t heard of was Bill Pickett, and if they had, they didn’t know he was black”. Bill Pickett born in 1870 in Tyler, Texas created “Bull Dogging”, a move in which he rode along side a steer, jumped onto its shoulders and brought the steer down by digging his feet into the ground, and biting the steers lip. The modern day version of the move is called “steer wrestling” and remains the most intriguing exhibition throughout rodeo history.

Bareback riding, calf roping, steer undecorating, bull riding and cowgirl barrel racing are only a smidgen of the excitement that awaits the rodeo spectator. Better than any old Western movie, more exciting than a day at the horse track, and hotter than a Fourth of July celebration, the Bill Pickett Invitational Rodeo is the most fun you will have this year. We guarantee it.

Touring from February through November each year, the rodeo can be seen in cities, arenas and fairgrounds across the country including, Philadelphia, Columbus, Los Angeles, Oakland, Sacramento, Bakersfield, Denver, Memphis, Washington DC, and Phoenix.
